Whether at school or at work, those struggling with learning issues need to understand how they learn best and how to use their strengths to achieve success.

1 in 5 U.S. students with learning disabilities drop out of school, compared to 8% of the general population.

LinkED provides...

...comprehensive diagnostic neuroeducational assessments for children age 3 through 18, college students, and adults. LinkED's assessment yields a profile of learning strengths and challenges and gives insight into an individual's approach to learning, problem solving, and working. This valuable self knowledge can make the difference between success and failure, whether in school or on the job.

What is a FULL assessment?

LinkED's assessment is distinguished by its in-depth examination of the whole individual. We gather information and feedback from significant people in the individual's life such as teachers, parents, spouse, etc. Our licensed diagnosticians select a range of assessments and inventories based on the need of the individual.

What happens after the assessment?

LinkED's written comprehensive report includes a profile of cognitive abilities and academic strengths and weaknesses and offers strategies, recommendations, and accommodations (if applicable) to improve performance at school, college, or work. After the evaluation is completed, diagnostician and client meet to review the results of the assessment and discuss the follow-up plan of action.

Additional services...

LinkED offers additional services to address learning needs such as:

- Educational consultations
- CliftonStrengths Assessments
